Traditions, changes mold John Marshall

Our school, like a kaleidoscope, was structured, patterned, definite, but within the structure it was transitional, contrasting, ephemeral. Behind the brick walls of John Marshall, the sunlight courts, smudged blackboards, and piles of books existed the faces of people, the momentous problems and the enthusiasms which altered this year. Jayem traditions, mingled with the new attitudes, new fashions, and new people symbolized 1968.

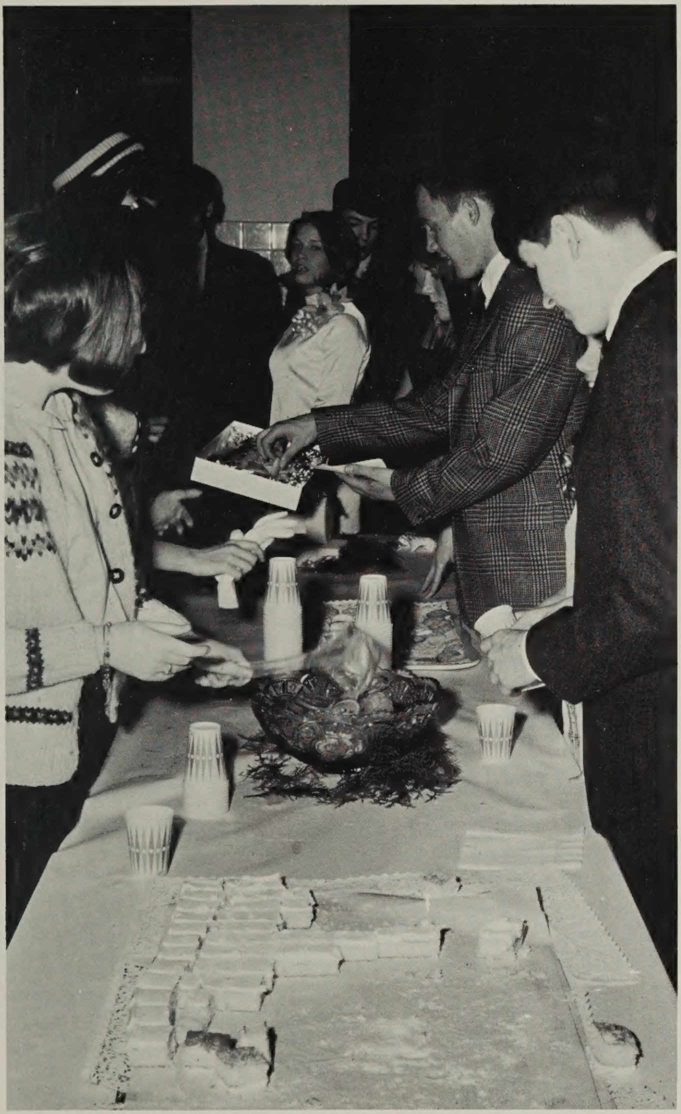
Students fulfill dreams, desires at Jayem



Sophomores serve prom refreshments to seniors.

Innovations and alterations—controversial new rules, rooftop pep rallies, daily activity periods, new classes—characterized all aspects of Jayem. Carefree youth clashed with the experience of age, learned and matured. From the mood of restlessness, turmoil, questioning of the students, a sense of unity and pride in John Marshall arose.

The year 1968 will always evoke a kaleidoscope of varied memories for every Jayem student.

Attentively, Jim Snead hears cadet's question.

Cadets march in review before Captain Garrette.

Marshallites gain school spirit, pride

The throbbing beat of "soulfinger" at pep rallies; hundreds of white, lacy snowflakes at the prom; talkative substitutes; week-end science projects; cramming before exams; Mike Howlette atop the backboard after the basketball team became first in the Capital District; spring elections' campaigns; the last strains of "Dear Old John Marshall"; tears and joys at graduation—this was John Marshall, 1968.

Spirited sophomores go wild with enthusiasm in an activity-period pep rally before a football game.

Education enriches inquisitive students

The cycle of faculty life was never ending. Eager student teachers entered Jayem, became teachers, grew old, and were replaced by other eager young teachers. The teachers themselves were as varied as the moving parts of a kaleidoscope—men, women, most dedicated, some merely employed—but all were unified by their existence in the world-within-a-world that was John Marshall High School.

Each teacher on the 1968 faculty was a distinct individual, with ideas and idiosyncrasies. The teacher-student relationship was one of mutual trust, mutual gripes, long-range assignments, excuses, punishments, constantly-challenged opinions. Some teachers were thought of with fear, some with a feeling of friendship, some perhaps with awe; all made a student's reaching for the impossible star a little more possible.

The administration guides by discipline

Our able administration worked to carry on the many traditions that made our school a beneficial place for study and work during this past year.

New teachers, new counselors, beginning students, eight new courses offered to our students, self-evaluation, evaluation by a visiting committee, carrying out recommendations of the visiting committee, revision of course offerings, working with the Math-Science Center, pride in our Justices, revitalization of the great school spirit of all Marshallites and lowering the pupil-teacher ratio were among the many problems solved and tasks accomplished.

Guidance gives consultation to individual

Ann and her class counselor make plans for year ahead.

The complex job of counseling the student through his four years of high school was given to five able faculty members within our guidance department.

Guidance applied to the arranging and rearranging of schedules, as well as furthering the needs of the individual through consultation and the instillation of self-discipline within the student. Counselors, aided by a large library of college catalogues, were able to help juniors and seniors with their plans for the future. Students were also urged by counselors to seek scholarship programs which would be beneficial.

Secretaries coordinate the school's affairs

Behind the operation of every organization there was an element which was responsible for the smooth running of affairs. Such was the task of the office secretaries, in addition to assisting students and teachers in whatever way possible. Typing letters, relaying important messages to students, cutting stencils, filing and duplicating were only a few of their responsibilities within their daily routine.

Nurse, dietitian satisfy needs of students

Mrs. Gordon checks Dorothea's weight.

Both the school dietitian and the nurse were integral parts of the John Marshall health service. The function of the dietitian was to keep Marshallites well-fed by planning cafeteria meals which were not only appetizing but contained all necessary proteins and vitamins. The nurse, Mrs. Gordon, kept a record of the fitness of each student by giving physical examinations to all new students, juniors, and athletes. For those who became ill or injured at school, the nurse furnished first aid or permission to go home.

Freshmen and sophomores were given the opportunity to perfect their use of grammar and style of writing through composition and to obtain a taste of great literary works through class participation in reading. Juniors and seniors took advantage of courses in American and English literature which developed an appreciation of the styles and skills of various authors.

Science is not limited to the study of life but delves into the unknown through experimentation and the study and proposing of theory. Aside from the regular courses offered, experimental courses of study were provided in which the individual student explored for himself the answers to the known and the unknown, such as ESP for freshmen, BSCS for sophomores, Chem Study for juniors and PSSC for seniors. The advance placement students were offered an advanced course in chemistry.

Languages develop customs and cultures

Mr. Wiltshire explains a play in a vivid illustration.

It has been said that through language the peoples of the world will obtain a greater understanding of each other. This goal has been foremost in the year within the language department. An understanding of the culture of six different countries was obtained in the individual classrooms through discussions of customs and language. Courses offered were Latin, Russian, Chinese, French, Spanish and German.

The individual classes also participated in projects. The display cases, located in the department, contained souvenirs from the various countries which served as enrichment to the students in understanding the varied civilizations. Some of the classes also had field trips.

The primary function of the business department was to afford the opportunity for improving efficiency in business, to gain and attain higher standards in the profession, to provide a facility for acquiring skilled knowledge, shortcuts and up-to-date techniques in stenography, to promote mutual understanding among students with similar goals, to encourage additional students to study business, and to broaden our views socially and professionally.

The activities of the business department were unlimited because of business personnel who spoke and kept the department informed on the changing trends.

VOT classes plan for future vocations

Miss Gooch instructs students in correct methods.

The vocational program of John Marshall High School introduced to the individual student skills and trades to be employed after graduation. It offered methods of job preparation during high school and means of personal experience during the remainder of the school day. The participant was therefore enabled to gain insight into future occupations. Members of this program were given opportunity to visit regional, district and state conventions where competition was provided in essay writing, various handicrafts, exhibits and the organization and content of scrapbooks.

Art department skill demonstrates talent

Under the new direction of Mr. Hammond, the art department again this year demonstrated its great value to the school. Included in the curriculum were sculpturing, drawing, painting, silkscreening and many other activities. In addition, the students worked on projects such as stage props, museum visits and a spring art show.

The main project this year, as in years past, was the making of scenery and backdrops for the operetta staged by Jayem's music department. Mr. Hammond and his crew of art students also took care of designing posters and programs for H.M.S. Pinafore.

Long-term projects involved cooperation and planning. The students were encouraged to work independently with assistance from Mr. Timok whenever needed.

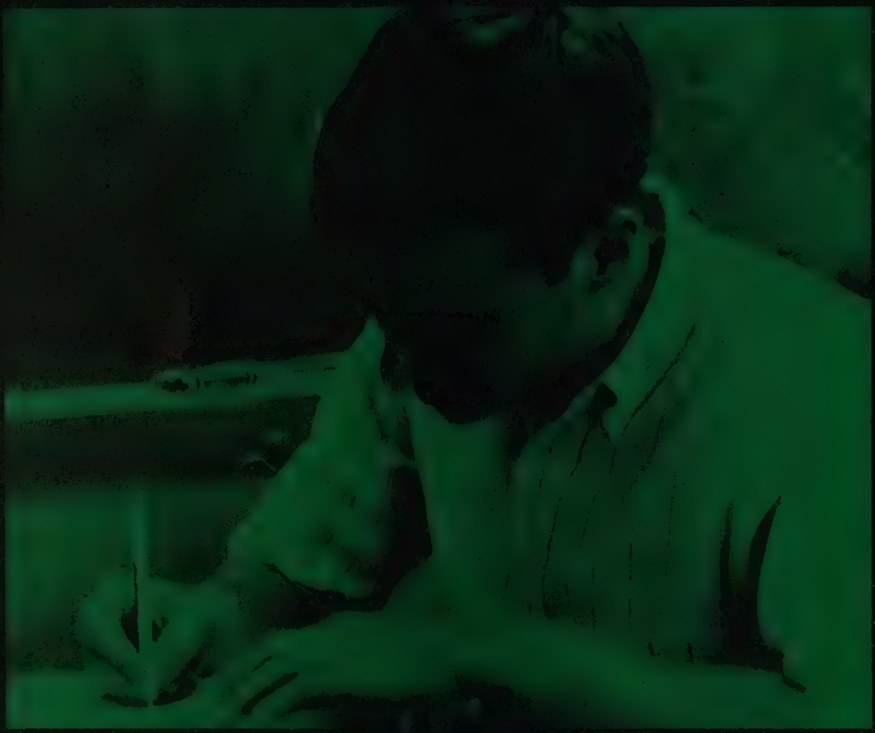
Home-Ec implants home responsibility

The basic aim of the home economics department was to prepare girls to appreciate the importance of home and family. The development of effective abilities, the understanding and the meaning of values, the making of intellectual use of resources, and the understanding of the changing roles of family members were among the supplementary goals of the program.



Contrasts, similarities combine in students

A sea of faces flooded into the halls on September 5, 1967, the first day of school. Amid the masses of people were strangers, old friends and new acquaintances. By June the faces had become individuals, friendships had formed, school leaders had emerged; every person found his place at John Marshall.

Total involvement in the kaleidoscope of school activities was characteristic of most Marshallites. Through participation in athletics, military, and clubs, students contributed their small part to all of Jayem. Assemblies, tumultuous pep rallies, crowded lunch tables, conversation around lockers, furtive whispering in the library study, and passing notes in class added sparkle to the monotony of studies. In an atmosphere of carefree laughter and hurried studying, students grew to maturity.

New Jayem life appeals to class of '71

With help from the Orientation Commission and upperclassmen, the class of '71 gradually adjusted to their new environment. After attending their first pep rally, they grew to realize the true meaning of the name John Marshall and the ideals for which Jayem stands. Various clubs and organizations offered big opportunities for the freshmen.

After getting used to John Marshall, the freshmen were ready to choose their class officers. They elected Vassie Ware, president; John Cobb, vice-president; Charlotte Beamon, secretary; and Katherine Carrington, assistant secretary. The ninth-graders soon began to play a major role in the life of John Marshall and could truly call themselves Marshallites.

B. Alexander, Secretary; S. Montgomery, Vice-President; A. Dabney, Assistant Secretary; H. Hutcherson, President.

Hutcherson and Montgomery lead juniors

Losing no time, the class of '69 began immediately in the fall to make plans for the Junior-Senior Prom held in the spring. Led by Hugh Hutcherson, Steve Montgomery, Beth Alexander, and Ann Dabney, the junior class geared most of its projects toward raising money to finance this gala event. The class got off to a good start by winning the $25 first prize for the best car in the homecoming parade. Two successful car washes brought more money into the treasury.

The junior class sponsored the sale of blue and white ballpoint pens imprinted with the basketball schedule and also sold class membership cards.

As upperclassmen, the juniors added much to John Marshall with their participation and leadership.

Henriette and AFS semi-finalists, Debbie Lunsford and Debbie McKee, discuss possible homes abroad.

Roger Webb, President; Lynn Garber, Vice-President; Anne Toms, Secretary; Eddie Slipek, Treasurer.

Webb, Garber chosen to lead class of 1968

The three hundred and seventy students who entered John Marshall High School on September 5, 1967, to begin their fourth year were well-aware of their seniority.

They had spent three years in preparation for the year that would send them on to college or start them on their first important job.

A class meeting was held in September at which the senior class officers, Roger Webb, Lynn Garber, Anne Toms, and Eddie Slipek, were introduced.

November brought the victorious Homecoming game and the crowning of Peggy Ramos as Miss Justice.

For the Homecoming parade, seniors decorated a 1937 Chevrolet with the slogan: "Seniors—Older and Wiser."

In early winter, several senior Marshallites took part in the WRVA High School Bowl.

After a grueling week of examinations, seniors and their dates relaxed at the semi-formal Senior-Junior Prom, which was held January 27. The gymnasium was transformed into a "Winter Wonderland," complete with evergreen trees and thousands of snowflakes. Tension mounted for many, as college acceptance deadlines drew near.

With spring came the crowning of the May Queen and her Maid of Honor. As a fitting end to the year, the juniors sponsored the traditional formal prom in honor of the seniors.

Graduation night brought tears of honest regret at the end of a glorious four years—years of success and failure, of fun and work, of growing. As seniors marched out of the Mosque to "Pomp and Circumstance," all knew that they were leaving behind a part of themselves, but taking with them a part of Jayem.

New ideas reshape traditional activities

The year's activities at John Marshall were a mad, kaleidoscopic whirl of events—most of them traditional, but all made different by the free, involved spirit of 1968. Students moved in a melange of flashing lights, loud music, brightly colored dresses, reverent silence, competition and cooperation.

A dash of Sweden in the form of AFSer Henri, "the Swede," Faulkman brightened Jayem activities. After a tension-filled week of pep rallies, election intrigues, and decorating homerooms, Peggy Ramos was crowned Miss Justice at the first night-time homecoming game. Mini-dresses, snowflakes, pronto-pups, brotherhood, Marryin' Sam, H.M.S. PINAFORE, Queen of Hearts—the mere mention of these brought back a flood of memories, some pleasant, some better forgotten.

with spirit and pep

Despite boat troubles and a nine-day delay, Jayem's Swedish exchange student, Henriette Faulkman, finally arrived in New York. She was met by her new family, the Weisensales.

A year of new faces and new experiences awaited Henriette as she entered JM for the first time. Marshallites came to know her as "Henri-Swede, the one who is always eating carrots."

With orders for all her friends to come to see her in Sweden, Henriette left Jayem, and America, with many regrets and several scrapbooks full of memories.

Charlie Brown show

"Good Grief! Talent" was the theme of the 1967 Talent Show. After a hectic week of practicing skits, memorizing parts, perfecting dance and song routines, the performances were given on October 28 and November 4. In keeping with the Charlie Brown theme, the Torch and Banner Club performed skits featuring the characters Snoopy, Linus, Peanuts, Charlie Brown, and Lucy. The Key Club and J.V. cheerleaders presented their versions of the Miss America Pageant and school life, respectively. Musical acts ranged from several "soul" bands to a Chopin nocturne. There were also a number of modern dance acts. To round out the program the football team sang "Michael, Row Your Boat Ashore," and the Marshall Singers offered a rendition of "Love is a Many Splendored Thing."

Parade, Queen Ramos create enthusiasm

Justice float assures Marshallites of victory.

Held at night for the first time in years, the 1967 homecoming game between John Marshall and Thomas Jefferson marked the climax of a successful football season and the continuance of one of Virginia's oldest rivalries.

Clubs, classes, and other groups from both Jayem and Teejay sponsored gaily-decorated cars for the half-time parade. The Junior Class float, "Wipe Out Jeffs," was the winning entry.

Ending a week of suspense, tearful Peggy Ramos was crowned Miss Justice. To make the day perfect, Jayem handed the Jeffs a 21-6 defeat.

Soul music inspires spirit of JM dances

Bands such as Gene and the Teenbeats, the Kings of Soul, and Stacy Henry and the Majestics provided the music for most of John Marshall's dances, making 1968 "the year of soul."

Students enjoyed a full schedule of dances and soc hops. Torch and Banner opened the year with a Kick-Off Dance to raise spirit for the football season. After a victorious season, Marshallites celebrated at the Key Club Victory Dance.

Following tradition, the Sophomores held their class dance and the Hi-Y sponsored a Thanksgiving Blast. Many football games were topped off with informal soc hops.

Snowy evergreens and hundreds of snowflakes set the mood for "Winter Wonderland," the Senior-Junior Prom honoring the Class of '69.

An innovation this year was TABS' Sweetheart Dance to raise money for the Heart Fund. The Sadie Hawkins Dance provided a chance for Jayem girls to snare their favorite fellows.

In the spring, the Junior Class honored the seniors with the traditional formal prom.

Bruce, Jim, and Joe relive political adventures.

Students encounter intricacy of politics

After being approved by the John Marshall faculty and passing American Legion screening tests, eight Marshallites were chosen to attend Boys' and Girls' State.

The campus of William and Mary was the site for the boys' seminar on politics, and the girls spent a similar week at Radford College.

The purpose of Boys' and Girls' State is to give high school students an acquaintance with politics on local, county, and state levels. Each representative was assigned, upon arrival, to a mock city. They entered into hectic campaigning and elected a governor, a mayor, and other officials. Virginia congressmen and Senators instructed the delegates in campaign procedures.

The John Marshall delegates were far from inactive, as Bruce Wright was elected a Supreme Court Judge and Jim Montgomery had an unsuccessful campaign for party chairman.

Debby Jacobs rules over 1968 May Day

Amid admiring glances from students and parents, the 1968 May Court gracefully filed into the school's north court to the tune of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the Band. The twenty girls, representing all four classes, wore formals of varying pastel shades. Carrying lovely bouquets of carnations, they walked to the end of the court and were seated. May Queen Debby Jacobs and Maid of Honor Laura Thornton were crowned by Mr. Madden.

Pep rallies brighten day, encourage teams

SOPHS SAY LAY 'EM LOW

Packed courtyard cheers team before Lane game.

Was it a sonic boom? No, it was only a John Marshall pep rally. Only? Between the Class Battle Cries and "Victory," the girders of the gymnasium roof began to shake. This was Jayem spirit. When the band played "Dixie" or "Soul Finger," the roof was ready to fall from the impact of clapping hands. This was Jayem spirit. The confidence of coaches and team members as they announced the might of the Justices, the never-say-die cheerleaders, skits in which the foe was badly beaten and Justice always prevailed—these, too, were Jayem spirit. This year was one of victorious teams and pride in all Jayem's achievements—creating spirit, created by spirit.

Steve Dalle Mura grimaces under pressure.

Wright leads Jayem to a Quiz Bowl win

"How far is Mexico from Cuba? Who sailed first, Cabot or Columbus? Who pitched the only perfect World Series game?" Questions like these were fired at the members of John Marshall's first Quiz Bowl team by its coach Mr. Wiltshire during practice sessions and later on in its two games.

Senior Bruce Wright led the team as captain. Two other seniors, Sarah Herrink and Tom Rowe, and junior Steve Dalle Mura completed the team.

In its debut, after overcoming initial nervousness, the team quickly gained a commanding lead and held it throughout the rest of the game to defeat Lane High School.

Jumping again to an early lead, the team seemed to be on its way to another victory, but by halftime Thomas Jefferson gained the lead. TeeJay expanded this lead in the second half to win.

Energetic cheerleaders evoke enthusiasm

Sharon Shannon encourages J.M.'s boys to win.

"All for Jayem stand up and holler!" But cheers were only a small part of their accomplishments. The large signs in the gym, spirit ribbons, and the roof top pep rallies showed the work of the Varsity cheerleaders.

The J.V. cheerleaders worked hard to create original cheers and boost spirit for their teams. Both Varsity and J.V. had bake sales and carwashes to buy team favors. This made spirit, and spirit made the team outstanding.

Organizations open horizons for service

Constitutions and by-laws formed the framework of the various clubs at John Marshall, but the clubs themselves were as transient as the members who made them. Ideas changed, loyalties shifted, but the clubs went on.

From service organizations to special interest groups, each club broadened the horizons of its members and added depth to the school. Apples for the teachers, adopted Christmas families, dances that always lost money, slum clearance, trying to write the most original skit, inter-club football and basketball games, decorating homecoming floats, attending church en masse, money-raising projects, competition for Club of the Month Award, preparing for contests, delegates at wild conventions, formal banquets, informal parties—these were the social and service activities of organizations in 1968.

SCA study allows breather for leaders

With the motto, "Put the student in the Student Cooperative Association," this year's SCA strove to make each Marshallite more aware of his part in Jayem. The SCA sponsored the AFS drive to raise money to support an exchange student.

Several SCA-backed soc hops provided an outlet after games. An innovation this year was the suggestion box, through which students could offer their ideas for school improvements. The SCA officers attended workshops throughout the year to gain new ideas for J. M.

Improving the school in character and beauty, the SCA Commissions sponsored many worthwhile projects. The Health and Safety Commission improved the parking lot conditions by issuing parking permits to students and teachers. The Display Commission began assigning display cases to various clubs to fill. Other school functions were handled by the traditional Character, Awards, Orientation and Cafeteria Commissions.

This year John Marshall was equipped with a new honor system. Heading this new system was the Honor Council, designed to try cases in direct offense of the Honor Code. It was a chance for students to be judged by fellow students, although only those cases recommended by Mr. Madden could be reviewed.

Students forming this Council consisted of the president of the Student Cooperative Association, co-chairmen of the Character Commission, two seniors, two juniors, two sophomores and one freshman.

Students receive Quill and Scroll awards

Opportunity, truth, integrity, initiative, leadership, loyalty, enlightenment, and friendship were the standards used by the Quill and Scroll Society when selecting outstanding high school journalists for membership. These seniors and juniors were honored for their untiring and skillful work on J.M.'s two literary publications, the MONOCLE and the MARSHALLITE. All members must, in addition, rank in the upper one-fourth of their class.

Demonstrating exceptional perseverance and ability in journalism, these students lived up to expectations of membership in Quill and Scroll by publishing excellent literature all year.

NHS acquires new members at Jayem

"Did I make it, or not?" This was the question posed in the minds of many students as they entered the National Honor Society tapping ceremonies this year. Departing from tradition, faculty members did not disclose any names until the actual assembly. Some juniors were tapped in the spring to form the core of an active Society for next year. Besides academic excellence, the honored students were judged by the faculty on character and leadership.

Sans Souci gains foreign culture insight

Sponsored by Mrs. Fontaine, the French Club, the Sans Souci, had an educational and interesting year. As a special highlight the club had AFSer, Henriette Faulkman, as a member. She was able to broaden their learnings about Europe.

Kathy Pryor and Blanche Wysor, president and vice-president respectively, led the meetings held during activity period on Thursdays. Minutes of the meetings were kept by secretary Lynn Carver, and financial affairs were handled by treasurer Fredricka Alley.

Members participated in city-wide speaking engagements telling of their athletic experiences.

Being the only class of its kind in the state, the Chinese culture class devoted itself to acquainting the student with the national language of China, instructing the student in the four language skills, giving the student a background necessary for understanding the Oriental mind, and providing the student with an opportunity to expand his knowledge of an important area of the world.

A humanities-type approach was taken in every aspect of the course. The course covered a broad range of subjects from the philosophies of Confucius to the Yale system of romanization of characters.

The class added flavor by visiting restaurants and participating in activities parallel to the course.

Romans stalk halls; Latin culture relives

On the first Monday of each month, a group of students, united by the study of Latin, met in a continuation of the regular classroom learning process.

In cooperation with the faculty, S.P.Q.R. members cleaned out desks. To raise money for its Easter egg hunt with the House of Happiness, the club held a doughnut sale.

For the enjoyment of its membership, the club held a banquet in the fall, and a picnic in the spring, complete with slaves.

YAC year enlightened by flow of speakers

Patriotism and an interest in America's heritage were the key factors which motivated the Young Americans' Club to a successful year.

MONOCLE news helps inform students

John Marshall's bi-weekly newspaper, the MONOCLE, never ceasing to recount the numerous events involving school life, found its task both challenging and hard.

Journalists found satisfaction in their personal involvement with the MONOCLE by experience through communication with the student body.

In order to keep up with the latest techniques, two representatives were sent to the Southern Interscholastic Press Association at Lexington. The Journacubs, in preparation for the responsibility of next year's MONOCLE, published two issues this year.

Diverse service projects benefit community

Serving the school and community, the John Marshall Key Club strove to develop personal initiative and leadership by providing experience in living and working together.

Under the leadership of President Clyde Stewart, the club kicked off the year with a work day. The proceeds were given to the U.G.F. drive in September. Honoring the football team and coaches, the club gave a victory dance for the student body after a game. During Christmas and Thanksgiving, clothes were given to a needy family and a party was held for the orphans from the House of Happiness.

Participating in the Talent Show, the club did a take-off on the Miss America Pageant.

Later, a paper drive was sponsored to raise money for the library and a campaign was undertaken to clean up the school parking lot.

The Hi-Y, under the leadership of president Joe Slay and vice-president Bob Taylor, completed a highly successful year of service to school and community. Several Saturdays were given over to renovating the Richmond Senior Center and to painting and cleaning homes in the poorer sections of town.

The Thanksgiving holidays brought a flurry of activities, as the hard-working Hi-Y boys collected food and clothing for a needy family and sponsored the annual Thanksgiving Dance. Striving to carry out their motto of "Clean Living," the club sponsored Religious Emphasis Week during the Easter season.

Jim, a Swede, 30 slaves equal TABS

Established in 1963, Torch and Banner Club has served the school and community for five years.

This year, TAB girls planned activities for boys at the Richmond Boys' Home and ushered at the Children's Theater. Members collected funds for Muscular Dystrophy, helped at the Tuberculosis Center, and sponsored Valentine's Day Dance to raise money for the heart fund. As a joint project, Key Club and Torch and Banner helped needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

For students who wanted help, TABS provided a tutoring service. To promote school spirit they wore decorated hats and sponsored a Football Kick-off Dance. Doughnut and bake sales, as well as a slave sale, were held to raise money.

Torch and Banner girls attended church as a group at least once a month. Sweetheart, Jim Montgomery, with his great personality, added much to the Club.

A new service club organizes at Jayem

Tri-Hi-Y, a newly-formed girls' service club, was sponsored by the YMCA. Because of its size, it was divided into two clubs, Triangle One and Triangle Two. The two chapters were separate service clubs with the exception of two joint projects.

Triangle One, under the sponsorship of Miss Stedman, chose Julie Kirkland as president, Lyle Kirby as vice-president, Sharon Shannon as secretary, and Bob Taylor as sweetheart.

Triangle Two, under Miss McCurdy, chose Judy Gentry for its president, Debbie Lunsford for vice-president, Peggy Cheatham for secretary, and Paul Martin for sweetheart.

The club strove to uphold its purpose "to create and maintain and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character."

The Orchestra even had the last word of the year, as they played "Pomp and Circumstance" for the graduation recessional.

Producing meaningful and inspiring pieces of poetry and essay was the aim of the Creative Writing Club. This year the club met regularly at school.

In an issue of the MONOCLE the club had several poems published. The club also published a booklet of poetry entitled Reflections and distributed them at the end of the year. A list of books was given to the club for reading and study.

Debate Club sends students to seminar

Consider the following points for debate: Social fraternities in high school should be abolished. Spectator sports in high school should be abolished. Television soap operas have a beneficial effect on the American society. The Debate Club has resolved that these are topics subject to debate.

Participation in vigorous verbal competition required conditioning of speech skills and reasoning. This year Steve Dalle Mura and Frank Lewis were sent to a seminar held at Douglas Freeman High School. Long hours of research and the compiling of evidence proved rewarding for the club. In addition to regular interclub debating, the team met with other area schools several times.

DECA presents "an apple to the teacher"

Apples for the teachers . . . two car loads of gifts for one family . . . contests, contests, contests . . . planned assemblies . . . banquets . . . all these were the busy activities of the Distributive Education Club of America at John Marshall.

Students have not only learned as members of DECA but also have given service to the school and community. These teens gave presents and entertainment to patients at the Crippled Children's Hospital and Sheltering Arms and supported a family at Christmas. During DECA week, apples, pens, and doughnuts were placed in the teachers' lounge for the faculty.

The senior DE class gained knowledge by doing market research work for the Gilbert Marketing Research Company. A banquet was held for DECA students in Richmond area schools which included competition in advertising, display, and other business areas.

DECA had much of which to be proud, especially the fact that Jayem's Debby Jacobs was named Miss DECA for the entire district.

ICT students unite earning with learning

Providing vocational training, giving the student on-the-job experience, and teaching him about the variety of occupations were integral goals of the Industrial Cooperative Training Program.

Members of John Marshall's club took part in the district, state, and national conventions. To publicize their activities, they made posters and displays within the school.

Teachers have aides through FTA plan

To get an insight into what teaching is all about, the Future Teachers of America observed teaching methods in Lynchburg College. In March, they held a tea in honor of the student teachers.

Since the club decided that the best way to understand the teaching profession was to aid J.M. teachers, each member gave ten hours of service to the faculty during the year. The club closed a most productive year with a banquet in May.

The Girls' Chorus and the Choir have long provided Jayem students and faculty with outstanding entertainment. Many assemblies were enriched by these teams and the operetta was their final perfection.

Parents keep pace through PTA programs

Trying to fulfill its purpose of creating better cooperation between parents and teachers, the PTA sponsored a "meet-the-teacher night." Parents were given the opportunity to discuss their children's high school future and many special problems were given serious attention.

During the year programs were designed for parents to help them understand their children's scholastic problems and programs. While trying to understand the "generation gap," parents held group discussions on grades and college jobs.

GAA participates in activities, sports

A rigorous program of physical fitness was initiated this year by the Girls' Athletic Association, under the leadership of President Sue Cox. This program included such varied activities as bowling, horseback riding, gymnastics, archery, and folk dancing.

To raise money, the GAA girls presented the annual Talent Show. Profits from "Good Grief, Talent," augmented by the sale of bookcovers and sweat shirts, supported girls' varsity teams in basketball, hockey, and tennis.

Regular meetings featured entertaining and informative speakers. Members found relaxation from their labors at the spring picnic held at Bruce's Academy.

Cadet Alumni honor Major Cartwright

Major Paul J. Cartwright's Tenth Anniversary highlighted the Annual Meeting of the Cadet Alumni Association. After a dinner in his honor, the alumni joined a large audience in the auditorium to hear an excellent Spring Concert directed by the Major. He was presented the Alumni Certificate of Achievement and was congratulated by former captains who had served under him.

At Cadet Graduation in June the Association awarded two $500 scholarships in honor of the late Brigadier General Edwin P. Conquest, first commandant of cadets at Jayem.

Cadet Alumni held their annual outing and dance, and chose Mrs. Becky Grady Pulliam, former sponsor of Company A, as sweetheart of the dance.

The Fiftieth Anniversary Committee finally succeeded in finding a Krag Rifle, the type used by the Corps in 1915.

Marching Military: self-discipline, pride

"Duty, Honor, Country," the cadet motto, set forth the ideals to be attained through discipline. The blue uniforms, brilliant red capes, rigid marching lines led to outward nonentity, but the varied abilities, efforts, and positions of cadets produced kaleidoscopic individuality within the structure of the Corps of Cadets.

The monotony of drills, inspections, Color Guard duty contrasted with the formal pageantry of the Cadet Figure and Sponsors' Day, competition at George Washington Day Parade, Competitive Drill, and Federal Inspection allowed cadets to show their precision marching prowess. The twenty-one gun salute on Veterans' Day, company cheers, tramping feet, the sword arch at the Cadet Ball, raising the Stars and Stripes each morning—these were the sights and sounds of the Corps.

Courts strive to maintain unity, discipline

The Honor Court, the General Committee, and the Recruit Committee served to maintain the high standards of the John Marshall Corps of Cadets.

Designed to instill in each cadet a sense of honor and self-respect, the Honor Court handled all cases in which the honor of a cadet was at stake.

Promoting high standards of personal conduct and military appearance was the purpose of the General Committee. The committee was composed of the three cadet class officers.

The Recruit Committee was designed to maintain supervision over the recruit system. This committee instructed each new cadet and brought to account those who broke the regulations.

Practice produces riflemen's successful year

At a rifle match, Jim Snead aims to shoot a perfect score.

As a result of long and strenuous practices, the rifle team sported a winning season. With Jim Snead as captain of the team and Wyatt Bowles as high scorer, the riflemen defeated the teams of George Wythe, Thomas Jefferson, Rockcreek, Cavalier, and Armstrong. Their only loss was to West Point.

The team, composed of fourteen cadets, was divided into two strings. To be eligible to join the team, cadets were required to show proficiency in the use of the .22 rifle and make at least average grades. Practices and most of the matches were held at Sherwood Reserve Armory and the University of Richmond.

Staff steadily works toward coordinating Corps activities.

The tiresome but rewarding task of organizing the four companies of the Corps of Cadets into one efficient unit was carried out by the Staff. Led by First Captain Stuart Garrette and Adjutant Wayne Powell, the Staff set an excellent example of military efficiency and academic achievement for all the companies to follow.

The Staff worked to unite all cadets into one harmonious group, dedicated to the maintaining of past standards and traditions and to the realization of sought-for goals.

Sponsor Debbie Jefferson proudly wore the red, yellow, and white colors and played a vital role in many Corps' functions.

Band extends spirit to all J.M. students

The National Anthem at a parade, Dixie at a pep rally, Soulfinger at a football game, the haunting strains of Taps at a ceremony—these were the sounds of the "best band in the land." At a game or pep rally, the tremendous band spirit was extended to all J.M. students.

Under a new bandmaster, these cadets sought to carry out old traditions as well as to create new ones. While striving to obtain musical as well as military perfection, band boys also found time for fun. They placed second in intercompany football and had frequent company meetings and activities.

Led by Mark and Cindy, the band worked toward making its 20th annual spring concert the best ever.

'A' Company captures third football title

Captain Jim Snead sternly reprimands "rats."

By sporting an undefeated season, the boys of 'A' Company captured the cadet football title for the third straight year.

No strangers to hard work, these cadets spent many long hours before and after school practicing to perfect their military skills. Led by Captain Jim Snead and Sponsor Carolyn Talley, the boys of the 'Red and Gold' displayed excellent corps spirit. To raise funds they held doughnut sales and a paper drive.

‘Red and Grey’ back up Jayem activities

‘B’ company cadets take part in the Annual Tobacco Festival Parade.

Backed by Captain Steve Robertson, the boys of ‘B’ company built company spirit by attending many football games together. They marched in the Annual Tobacco Festival, the George Washington Birthday Parade at Alexandria, and attended Monumental Church to observe Veterans’ Day.

In preparation for Competitive Drill, many long hours were spent to achieve military precision. To raise funds for its varied activities, ‘B’ company held a hay ride for the corps and sold doughnuts.

Maureen Herndon, affectionately known as “Herman,” added much to the spirit of the “red and grey,” by representing it at cadet functions as sponsor.

'C' Company seeks to win Cup and Drill

'C' Company cadets perform in Wednesday afternoon parade.

The boys of "Charlie" company strove to gain their second consecutive win of both the Efficiency Cup and the Competitive Drill. Under the leadership of Captain John Baroody, First Lieutenant Tony Edwards, and Second Lieutenant Anthony Anderson, the company had a very successful year. Sponsor Carolyn Weems proudly represented the boys of the 'Black and Blue' at Cadet Corps functions.

From Sponsors' Day to Cadet Graduation, the varied activities of the company included constant drilling, taking part in intercompany football and basketball games, weekend meetings, hay rides, and parties.

Corps captures two trophies at Alexandria

Bad weather often interfered with Cadet Corps functions this year. During the Tobacco Festival Parade, rain dampened the cadets' uniforms, but not their spirits. Again because of the rain, long-awaited Sponsors' Day had to be postponed.

On Veterans' Day, the Corps participated in the memorial service at Monumental Church, a Corps tradition of many years.

The social highlight of the year was the Cadet Figure, at which the spirit of the Christmas season added to the excitement of full-dress uniforms and long white dresses. With the end of the first semester came Recruit Recognition.

A trip to Alexandria for the George Washington Birthday Parade brought home a thrilling first place award for the entire Corps and a close second place for the Band.

After months of constant practice by all three rifle companies, Competitive Drill was held in the spring.

Wayne and Stuart agree that the figure is fine.

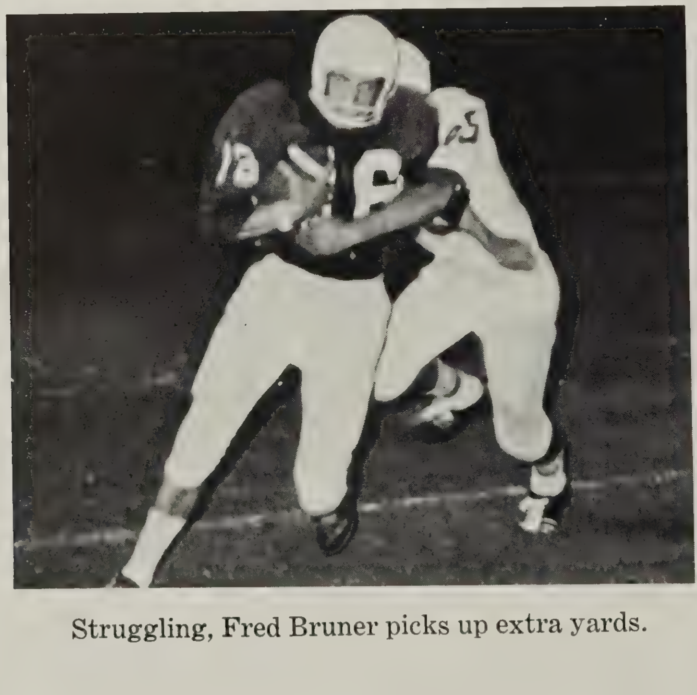
JAYEM athletes gain pride by teamwork

The pride of victory, the pain of defeat, the roar of the crowd, and the coach's shouted instructions—team sports are made from these elements. Every athlete has known the complete fatigue of body and spirit brought on by endless practicing, has felt the cold, nervous knot in the pit of his stomach when he realized that the outcome hinged on his next move. These things, like the rules of the games, never changed. But every season was new and exciting, and every athlete played the game a little differently. The combination of skill, speed, and teamwork fostered victories, and victories fostered pride in Jayem, consistent good sportsmanship, and a Capital District title.

Marshallites had every right to be proud of the teams in 1968, as many athletes played their hearts out and brought triumphs home to John Marshall.

To gain three yards, Buddy Covington has to force his way through the George Wythe defensive line.



Struggling, Fred Bruner picks up extra yards.

Jayem beats TeeJay, boasts 6-3-1 record

In compiling a 6-3-1 record, the powerful Justice offense rolled up 163 points. A 53-6 win over Tucker set a new school scoring record. With 36 points, James Wilder led the team to Jayem's highest scoring season in over twenty years. The defense did an outstanding job, never allowing more than thirteen points. Bob Hines, Mike Howlette, Greg Patterson, and Harrison Marks were leaders of the defensive squad.

Charlie Walker, scoring twice, and Wilder, scoring once, helped Jayem to run over Colonial Heights in the first game of the season. Sparked by the running of quarterback Fred Bruner, Jayem's offense proved too much for Tucker, as they trounced the Tigers 53-6. A high-scoring, undefeated Justice team then faced Lane and its 51-game winning streak. Jayem accepted a heart-breaking 13-12 defeat, but the Justices proved their ability.

Freeman then handed J.M. a second straight loss. Jayem, however, proved its spirit was not broken as, with the aid of Monk Bolton's two touchdowns, the Justices crushed Varina 33-0 and then beat Wythe 20-6.

With a final-quarter touchdown, Henrico defeated J.M. 13-6. Ivan Stovall entered the Hermitage game in the second half and sparked the team to a come-from-behind victory with 61 yards rushing. After having his own touchdown called back because of a penalty, Stovall threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Warren Winston. Bruner passed to David Moore, who made the reception for an electrifying 7-6 victory. Jayem scored twice in the second half to tie a strong Highland Springs team 13-13.

With Wilder gaining 91 yards, along with Covington and Moore scoring, Jayem rolled to a 21-6 homecoming victory over Thomas Jefferson. This win gave Jayem a slight one-game lead in the traditional homecoming rivalry.

J.M.'s defense braces for a Springer charge.

Sweeping an end, Bruner runs for a long gain.

David Moore looks for a way to elude tacklers.

Junior Varsity battles for winning season

Rudy Pitchford struggles to hold his balance as tacklers halt him.

After a 0-0 opener with Thomas Jefferson and a 13-12 loss to Douglas Freeman, Arthur Mitchell scored two touchdowns to lead the J.V.'s over Henrico, 25-7. In the last game, interceptions by Anthony George and Norman Mitchell sparked the team to a 29-0 victory over J. R. Tucker.

Arthur Mitchell led in scoring with 24 points. Dennis Coward starred in the backfield and Maurice Bell and Mike Hayes were standouts on the offensive and defensive lines. Frank Willson added strength to the defensive line as an end.

The team named Mark Strokhorb and Dennis Coward as co-captains.

Lack of experience overcome by desire

Coach Hammond took over the duties of training the John Marshall cross country team, and found himself leading a team hindered by inexperience and numerous injuries.

Working hard with their new coach, the boys dedicated themselves to overcoming these problems. Important victories over Lane and George Wythe paved the way to a rewarding 4-5 record, an improvement over past seasons. Sophomore Neal Peters was the mainstay of the squad. David Hoover, Dwight Shearn, Roy Battle, and Keith Jones also ran well.

The team competed in the district meet, and Neal Peters won a place in the state meet by finishing eleventh. There, in a field of over 150, he finished in the top forty.

Championship team, wins tournament title

Determined and well-balanced, the John Marshall basketball team fought its way to the Capital District Championship and won the District Tournament.

In its march to the championship, the team played its best in practically every game. Shooting forty-four per cent, the team played fine offense, but was equally outstanding on defense. Bell and Howlette led the team in both rebounding and scoring. With assists and scores, co-captains Bruner and Priddy were the playmakers on the floor. Montgomery and Webb added depth to the fast-moving squad. Throughout the year Breedlove, Ellerson, and Gresham aided the team, and Steve Montgomery, Chisholm, Chalkley, and Farmer added to the Justice effort.

In winning the District title, the Justices compiled a 13-3 district record, 14-4 overall. Jayem defeated many teams in the district, losing only to Wythe, Lane, and Freeman, and to Newport News in an inter-district game. To clinch the title, J.M. beat Tucker in the last game of the schedule.

With their title behind them, the team moved on to the Capital District Tournament. Tucker, then Wythe, fell to the Justices. For the final victory, J.M. beat Highland Springs to gain the tournament title. After being brought up from the Jayvees, Carl Smith aided the team greatly in the tournament. Bell and Priddy were named to the All-Tournament Team, and Bell was elected the Most Valuable Player in the Capital District.

After a season of success, the team suffered a night of utter frustration. In their first game of the Regional Tournament, Jayem was beaten by Hopewell.

Beverley Bell, a junior, won the great honor of being placed on the All-District, All-Tournament, and All-Regional Teams.

Barnes wins state wrestling championship

Johnny McCauley pulls his Meadowbrook opponent back to the mat

Senior Alan Barnes, in his fourth year on the squad, led the wrestling team to one of its best seasons in years. He was aided by Scott Lowry, Harrison Marks, Glenn Summers, and Roderick Hewlett. Though the team was plagued by injuries, important victories were scored over Huguenot, Meadowbrook, Prince George, and Colonial Heights. The grapplers had a strong finish in the regional tournament.

Coach Louis Timok, in his second year as J.M.'s wrestling coach, worked hard with the boys. He said, "I am proud of the effort and work every boy put out for the team."

Carter molds team from large turnout

A large turnout gave Coach Carter sufficient material from which to choose the John Marshall Varsity baseball team. Hard practices on hot, spring days prepared them for the long season. The pitching post was mastered by returning lettermen Leslie Ellerson and Tim Ford. Ken Priddy and Ed Via, aided by newcomers David Booth and Ben Kay, kept the infield moving. Ed Marable and Bob Peters provided strength in the outfield. Depth was added by John Clark and Dennis Coward, important newcomers to the team. Coach Chambers took those left over from the Varsity to form his Junior Varsity squad. He worked long, hard hours with the team to add the experience they needed for realizing the potential that they possessed.

Returning lettermen fortify tennis team

The return of all of last year's top six provided the tennis team of '68 with a strong core. Fred Bruner returned for his fourth season to pace the netters. Support came from Buddy Covington, Bob Taylor, Ernest Brown, Clarke Davis, and Charles Summers.

Endurance needed for long matches came from hours of tiresome practice. Important matches pitted J.M. against formidable teams of Wythe, Collegiate, Freeman, and Jefferson.

Lack of depth slows down the track team

Preparing to sprint, Charlie Walker crouches.

Lack of depth was one of the main obstacles that a small track team faced this year. Many of the twenty boys were forced to perform in two or three events.

Troubled by inexperience, the boys in weight events labored hard to excel. Moore, Mudd and Hayes put the shot while Carr and Whitlow threw the discus.

Hurdlers Wilder and Jones were standouts. Philips, Robinson, and Burrell ran the sprints, and Shearn and Battle were called on for the longer middle distances.

One-two pole vaulters were Webb and Fred Williamson. Kenny Smith and Warren Winston competed in both the conventional broad jump and the triple jump.

With determination, hurdlers Keith Jones and Bubba Wilder peer down the track.

Businesses support yearbook financing

Soliciting businessmen to buy advertisements either for competitive reasons or as a community service was the job of the business staff. Long hours in the summer spent tramping downtown streets, driving all over the city to locate prospective buyers, going to see the advertising manager and finding he will be gone for three months, going to sell ads during sixth-period study and ending up at the friendly 7-11 store, reasoning, arguing, finally convincing an owner to purchase an ad, posing for pictures, selling over a hundred dollars of ads, keeping careful records, sending out bills—this kaleidoscope of activity, though similar to the past year's work, was unique because of new, enthusiastic business staff members and the new firms that bought advertisements.

Now a student life policy a father can afford!
Insurance: $10,000
Premium: $30

College is costly enough without high insurance premiums . . . yet students should be insured. Life of Virginia now offers a way to give students ten thousand dollar coverage, for only thirty dollars a year, with no medical examination. Both full-time college students up to age 27 and high-school seniors who will be in college within six months are eligible. And the insured may convert to permanent insurance at any time the Student Life Plan is in force, without evidence of insurability. For information on Student Life Plan, call a Life of Virginia representative today.

ELECTRICITY:
MUSCLE OF INDUSTRY

Behind the great industrial might of America stands a "giant workman" — electric energy. It would require the muscle energy of 70 men working 40 hours a week for one whole year to equal 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity — less than the average annual consumption of two Vepco residential customers. Yes, electricity is the "muscle" behind our power and prosperity.

Pride, spirit: the essence of Jayem, 1968

The New York Times

Reading a newspaper, a busy student relaxes in the library.

Four wonderful years at Jayem ended in June for the seniors. Every individual Marshallite was like a piece of a kaleidoscope, changing with each new turn. Each new year, each new person, each new event shifted the individual's position at Jayem. As the seniors were graduated, they left a place which had drastically altered their lives. Joys, sorrows, loves, disappointments, apathies and enthusiasms of youth had been felt within the structure of the school. Specific memories may fade, but a trace of youthful feelings, the school building itself, and the pride of "I'm so glad I go to Jayem High" will always remain.

to lazy, warm spring time . . .

to 3:19, the end of school.

The edifice of John Marshall, the lights, the shadows—marked indelibly the students who passed through its hallways. Jayem will remain as the structure of the kaleidoscope as people move and change within it.
